Jenkins Law Library adopts vLex for their international research and enters a new era on their 220th anniversary

From April 2022, vLex will become the first provider to offer America's oldest law library access to international materials from over 100 countries, all on one intelligent platform.

London, United Kingdom. — vLex is honored to announce that it will be working closely with Jenkins Law Library to provide greater value to library members. For the first time in the library's 220-year history, members will be able to access extensive collections of global legal information from vLex, as well as award-winning research technology and an ecosystem of time-saving tools that have been designed to enhance research and improve productivity.

“We are delighted to be working with one of America's oldest legal institutions. vLex's wealth of legal information and toolbox of cutting-edge technology is constantly growing and evolving, and we are pleased that we are able to support Jenkins Law Library with our services. We are confident in our ability to meet the needs of the library members, and we thoroughly look forward to working with Jenkins to make international legal information more accessible to their members.” — Masoud Gerami, Managing Director, vLex Global Markets.

“Jenkins Law Library was founded in 1802 to provide the people of Philadelphia with access to legal information. Over the years, the library has developed a proud and rich history of adapting to changing times, and the COVID-19 pandemic has proven to be no different. With fewer people coming into the library post-pandemic, we have worked hard to meet the changing needs of our library members. We are, therefore, delighted to be working with vLex as we continue to support our members by introducing more online resources, international material and new technologies.” — Ida Weingram, Co-Executive Director, Jenkins Law Library.

vLex is a leading provider of award-winning technology and global legal information, providing access to comprehensive primary and secondary collections from over 100 countries, on one intelligent research platform. Founded over 20 years ago, vLex provides a cutting-edge service for thousands of lawyers, law firms, government departments, and law schools around the world. With a team of over 200 lawyers, engineers, commercial executives, and editorial experts, vLex strives to deliver bespoke technology that enhances research and the connectivity of millions of editorially enriched legal documents.
